

paul Bluestein

Jazz Trio

Guitar

Fingers,

glide gracefully

string to string,

fret to fret.

Each note a drop of rain
from clouds of jazz.

Piano

Two hands skitter across the black and white keyboard.

Spiders spinning silken threads of smooth jazz.

Percussion

Cymbals, high-hat
snare and tom-toms.

A bebop, hot funk

Latin heartbeat.

Rhythms like twelve-year old Scotch shot straight to the listener's soul .

Cool....

paul Bluestein is a physician by profession (still practicing), a musician (still practicing) and a dedicated Scrabble player (yes, ZAX is a word). He writes poetry when The Muse calls unexpectedly and rings insistently until he answers, even if he doesn't want to talk with her just then. He currently lives in Connecticut with his wife and the two dogs who rescued him.
